

New Zealand Birth Certificates

A New Zealand birth certificate is a registered document that provides evidence that the person's birth was registered in New Zealand. This document is often required to be produced for the purposes of obtaining a passport, visa, driver's licence, enrolling at school, applying for welfare benefits or proving who the person's parents were.

Due to the Privacy Act it is important that all information that is provided with your application is as accurate as possible. Incorrect information may result in your application being declined and the application fee is non-refundable.

The certificates are usually issued within 7 to 14 working days from the date of confirmation of a correct and completed application.
